Comments
Overall, the course is very interesting. Professor Ayman's passion in the topics makes me want to learn and know more.
The professor's approach to the material is amazing! I don't like Abstract Algebra much, however his sessions were interesting due to his passion in this specific domain. You leave his session you got the whole figure, then the rest is on you! I liked how he reminded us of the needed facts / theorems as prerequisites, so he didn't leave us out of the blue and showed you the relation of the old material to what he wanted to explain (He was building the blocks). It was an honor to attend his class. His notes, and material on his website are very helpful.
His Knowledge and command over the subject
Professor was very passionate about the subject.

Suggest specific improvements to the course, if any.

I personally think the exams were a bit too challenging. I believe that we, as graduate students, should be exposed to problems that are challenging but under exam pressure it was hard for me to do well.
Due to the professor's enthusiasm during the explanation, he jumped from one topic to another and went fast that it took us time to comprehend the thought, especially for students who came from a different background got confused little; maybe this is how the course is after all, it requires strong background. The Material needed more detailed examples, Maybe a separate proper sheet can be provided that contains examples related to the theorems.
